Dear families,

As we welcome the month of Ramadan, we extend our sincere best wishes to all families who are observing. We greatly admire the commitment, patience, and strength our students demonstrate during this special time. In Islam, Ramadan is not only a period of fasting, but also a time for reflection, self discipline, and continuing one's responsibilities with sincerity and balance. One of the teachings of Ramadan is that acts of worship are found not only in prayer and fasting, but also in seeking knowledge, showing good character, and fulfilling daily duties.

Ramadan is also a time to work on becoming better versions of ourselves. It encourages us to be more mindful of our words and actions, to show greater kindness, and to be more considerate of the needs and feelings of others. Students are reminded that patience, respect, honesty, and compassion are especially meaningful during this month, and that even small acts of generosity and understanding can make a big difference in the lives of those around us.

For this reason, we respectfully encourage students to continue attending school as usual throughout Ramadan. Maintaining regular routines while fasting supports students in building resilience, focus, and purpose. Being present at school is essential for their academic progress, social development, and sense of belonging. Please be assured that we are committed to supporting our students with understanding and care, and we will work closely with families to ensure this remains a positive and successful month for all.

Kind regards
